FRANCE ISSUES FOOD AND FUND DECREES TODAY

New Economic and Financial Measures Regime Nation

FOOD CARDS WILL BE DISTRIBUTED

Women Sent to Munition Plants In Order To Release Men

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Feb. 29.—The French government today adopted a sweeping series of economic and financial measures, regimizing the nation for the fight against Germany.

The cabinet, meeting under President Albert Lebrun, approved the institution of food ration cards, lower quality bread and generally reduced consumption, accompanied by increased production, in order to shoulder the tremendous financial burden of the war.

Will Explain Decrees Finance Minister Paul Reynaud arranged to explain the decrees to the nation in a broadcast.

France also took steps to put women into her munitions plants and release the men for the vital work of farming.

It was estimated 280,000 women already are engaged in the highly dangerous work of mixing gunpowder and making bullets and laboring on the assembly lines of aviation plants.

There are ten sets of decrees in all. Before the cabinet session the chamber of deputies began a week's debate on French agricultural policies. Speakers termed the wheat situation "critical" because of government meddling and demanded release of men in military service in order to assure spring planting to provide food for the nation.

Held Farmers to Soil The government already has requisitioned all farmers to hold them to the soil for maintenance of farm production.

As the cabinet met, Paris students pushed wheelbarrows loaded with scrap iron to the pantheon, burial place of French heroes, and deposited it as a contribution to French war resources.

Flood's Crest, Moving South, Leaves Death, Damage in Wake

California Towns, Ranches Summerged; Relief Units Take Up Work

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 29.—The crest of a disastrous northern California flood moved southward along the storm-cluttered Sacramento river today, leaving a trail of inundated towns and ranches and threatening to burst levees downriver.

Two towns were practically submerged, many others had inundated sections, two persons were dead, thousands of acres of farm lands were under water and more than 4,000 persons were estimated homeless.

In Sacramento, Federal Meteorologist E. H. Fletcher said he had been informed levees at Princeton and Butte City, hamlets about 70 miles north of the state capital, might go out during the night, spreading water over more areas of the rich central valley.

The towns of Gerber and Tehama, about 115 miles north of Sacramento, were nearly covered by flood waters.

Clearing Weather Forecast North of the stricken towns, the river was falling, and the weather bureau here forecast clear or clearing weather for the immediate future after four days of torrential rains.

State, federal authorities, and the Red Cross moved units into the stricken area to aid in reconstruction and to care for the homeless.

Governor Culbert L. Olson announced the state had obtained a $10,000 WPA emergency appropriation and had asked for $100,000 more.

Flood waters still covered portions of Redding, Red Bluff, Orland and surrounding agricultural lands, and many other communities in the state's vast north central valley.

Major highways were under water in many places or blocked completely by slides and debris, and numerous bridges were washed away.

Deaths attributed to the flood were those of Harold E. Von Bergen, hydraulic engineer who drowned.

RULES AGAINST $100,000 BONDS

County Auditor Sets Limit As Commissioners Seek Funds

LISBON, Feb. 29.—Columbiana county commissioners, faced with a depleted relief fund, were advised today by County Auditor Ross Tisher that that county can not issue $100,000 in bonds for relief.

The bonds would be issued in anticipation of the collection of delinquent taxes, but Tisher explained that the county's tax delinquency is not great enough to permit a $100,000 issue. He ruled that the county can not issue bonds for more than 70 per cent of the outstanding delinquency, meaning, in this instance, a $75,000 issue.

Enough money is available out of a $110,000 issue a year ago to take care of the county's relief needs for about three months.

Heavy rainstorm turns rivers into lakes in sections of northern and central California, causing the evacuation of hundreds of families to higher ground. This picture was taken at Pescadero, Cal., as a fireman, right, helped Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas and son to safety.

BOOSTS ANNUAL SAFETY RALLY

State Engineer Urges Industrialists To Attend Congress

Safety Engineer J. P. Scanlon of the division of safety and hygiene, Industrial Commission of Ohio, is here today, looking after safety surveys and incidentally contacting local industrialists in connection with the eleventh annual session of the All Ohio Safety congress and exhibit, to be held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel, Columbus, April 16-17-18.

"The object of the Congress," said Scanlon, "is to gather into conference those charged with accident prevention in industry, with the purpose of exchanging views on safety methods and safe practices that have proven effective in their respective plants and to hear discussions by nationally-known leaders on programs for stimulating safety spirit among employees and on specific accident problems facing the various industrial classifications."

Discuss Group Problems "In addition to general sessions daily, designed to deal abstractly with the problems of industrial safety, there will be sectional meetings for all the major industrial groups, at which discussions will be devoted to the particular problems of each group. Speakers on the various programs include many of the nation's leaders in safety thought and action, who will present the most modern ideas on plans designed to reduce the suffering and sorrow incident to occupational injuries, and at the same time, lighten the economic burden which needless accidents place upon both employer and employee."

Scanlon reports a very gratifying response on the part of local industrialists to the appeal for representation and is anticipating more delegates from this section than there have been at any one of the ten preceding sessions.

The congress, sponsored by the division of safety and hygiene, in cooperation with employer and employee groups throughout the state, has no registration or other fees and every person interested in safety is not only privileged, but encouraged, to attend.

City Contracts Let By Board of Control

Contracts for providing the city with needed supplies during 1940 have been awarded by the board of control, following the opening of bids.

The Graybar Electric Co. of Youngstown submitted a low bid of $1,025.39 and was given the electrical equipment contract. Winners of other contracts were: Coal, Brookwood Coal Co. of Salem; light bulbs, Peerless Modern Appliance Co. of Salem; chlorine for water treatment, Solvay Sales Corp. of Cleveland; water meters, Worthington-Gamin Meter Co. of Cleveland; fire hydrants, Darling Valve & Mfg. Co., Williamsport, Pa.

Contract for furnishing sand, gravel, cement and limestone were withheld pending a further study of bids submitted. It was announced.

Sheriff Finds $280 In Old Sardine Can

EAST LIVERPOOL, Feb. 29.—Sheriff M. K. Duty, searching the shack abode of the late Charles Fletcher, of near East Liverpool, yesterday afternoon, unearthed from beneath a cot a sardine can containing $280.

Found in the bottom of a trunk was a roll of bills totaling $50.

The sheriff made the search at the request of a sister of the deceased, residing at Gallion, who said she believed her brother, who lived meagerly, might have some money hidden in his room.

FINN SOLDIERS FALLING BACK

Russian Troops Continue Hammering On Viipuri Front

HELSINKI, Feb. 29.—Finnish troops have fallen back again before Russian forces hammering toward Viipuri along the western edge of the Karelian isthmus but the Finns said they had dug along new defense lines to inflict heavy losses on the enemy.

(A Russian communiqué said Soviet forces were within four miles of Viipuri.)

Fighting was concentrated at the two extremities of Finland. While the communists of the Finnish high command said "enemy pressure continued" yesterday in the southeast, on the isthmus fighting also continued at the Nautsi river, in the far north above the Arctic circle.

The Russians were trying at all costs to push their advances on the western flank of the Mannerheim line to encircle and capture strategic Viipuri, Finland's third largest city.

Sheriff 52 Today; Has 12th Birthday

LISBON, Feb. 29.—Today was Feb. 29 and Sheriff M. K. "Mike" Duty, born Feb. 29, 1888, celebrated his 12th birthday. Actually, however, he is 52.

The deputy sheriffs arranged a surprise for him at the courthouse office this morning and presented him with, among other things, a cake bearing 12 candles.

Fellow officers gave him three pipes, a humidifier and a pipe rack, while his mother, Mrs. Dan Duty of Wellsville, presented her son with an inscribed gold sheriff's badge.

NAZIS HAVE NO PEACE PLAN TO OFFER WELLES

U. S. Envoy Scheduled To Arrive In Berlin Friday Morning

GERMANY STILL WANTS TO FIGHT

Declares Western Powers Must Not Interfere With Her Plans

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, Feb. 29.—When United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles arrives here tomorrow morning he will find official Germany determined to fight England and France until she has guarantees both that the western powers will not interfere with Germany's "lebensraum"—living space—and that the last remaining "wrong" of the Versailles treaty, loss of German colonies, be "righted."

Nazi Germany has defined central and southeastern Europe consistently as "lebensraum." Authorized sources attached special significance to one passage in the speech of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels yesterday in which he said:

"The German people are perfectly aware that in this conflict of arms between themselves and western plutocracy life and death are at stake. Evasion is no longer possible."

No Mood for Peace In other words, Fuehrer Hitler is in no mood to offer Welles any peace plan.

If others have any plan, informed circles intimated, Hitler is willing to consider it, but always from the viewpoint that Britain must renounce all claims or intentions to interfere with Germany on the European continent besides "disgorging" what Germany believes to be property unlawfully annexed by Germany's enemies.

Some authorized commentators even went so far as to claim that m.e.e renunciation by England is not enough—Britain and France must give guarantees that Germany will not be interfered with every quarter century.

Welles insists upon paying his own bills during his sojourn in Germany, authorized sources intimated.

Invited guests of the nation are housed in Germany's new guest house, the Bellevue palace, which was first visited by Prince Paul of Yugoslavia last summer. Welles at his own request will live at the Adlon hotel, three doors from the American embassy.

He reaches here at 9:32 a. m. (3:32 a. m. E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Understand Welles Desires German officialdom understands fully and appreciates that Welles desires during his European trip to avoid even the semblance of his being under obligations toward any of the nations visited. Also it is appreciated that he is coming strictly on business.

The German press has been fond of poking fun at British statesmen visiting the French front and invariably being entertained lavishly. Germany takes Welles at his word that he is coming solely to inform himself on behalf of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, and therefore they neither expect him or the Fuehrer to propose any peace plan nor will they be disappointed if he austere refrains from converting a journey of information into a social junket.

Paris Ready for Bombers

Flight of massed squadrons of German planes over the Paris region was seen as heralding a bombing raid. The Nazi fliers dropped no missiles on their first large-scale flight over the French capital. None was brought down although Paris is dotted with anti-aircraft guns like the one above on Invalides Esplanade (above). The War College is in background, with the Tomb of Napoleon behind it.

Cleveland Women Clamor For Death Trial Reserved Seats

Hundreds Besiege Bailiff For Chance to Hear Story of University Student Accused in Slaying

Associated Press Writer CLEVELAND, Feb. 29.—Several hundred Cleveland women went reserved seats for the impending murder trial of John L. McCormick, 21-year-old University of Pittsburgh student.

They telephone Bailiff Walter Morsefield, and halt him on the street. By now, Morsefield said today, he can recite his answer without a thought.

"I have told them all that the courtroom only accommodates about 50 spectators and that it is not possible to make reservations," he said. "They will just have to come and take their chances on getting in."

McCormick, calm in his jail cell, will enter Judge Samuel E. Kramer's common pleas courtroom Monday to be tried for first degree murder. He is accused of the Jan. 8 holdup-slaying of Theodore Nichols, a special guard, in Western Union Telegraph Co.'s main office a few steps from Euclid avenue and E. Ninth st.

Court attaches say the case has aroused more pre-trial interest than any murder case they remembered. Morsefield said 90 per cent of those asking him for reservations are women, and that he has had 40 requests this week, alone.

Most calls, he said, are from member of Parent-Teacher associations, women's clubs, social workers and Y. W. C. A. groups.

No Reason or Excuse McCormick, who pleaded innocent, says "I had no reason or excuse for what I did. I didn't need the money."

"I had a new car every year. My parents paid all my expenses at school and gave me a good allowance, about $20 a week. What came over me, I don't know. It doesn't make sense, does it?"

McCormick, Detective Sergeant Hogan said, also admitted Western Union holdups netting $470 at East Liverpool, O., and $78 at Fairmont, W. Va. He has recovered from bullet wounds received in the Cleveland holdup. McCormick was captured near the scene after he shot it out with the 37-year-old special guard. Mr. and Mrs. J. Woods McCormick are the youth's well-to-do parents.

Fireman Mike Welch at city hall felt very much relieved today.

The smiling Irish firefighter lately had noticed a "wheeze" everytime he breathed. Although his chest did not pain him, he imagined his lungs had inhaled too much smoke, for Mike is no baby when it comes to battling his way through smoke and flame.

The fireman was all but in a doctor's office when he discovered the wheeze in his lungs was merely a squeak in his new suspenders.

BUSINESS MEN PLEDGE AID TO 'FEATHERS FETE'

Committee Is Selected To Set Date, Arrange For Program

BIDS ARE FILED BY OTHER CITIES

Youngstown, East Liverpool, Columbiana Want Festival

A poultry festival, to be held in Salem probably next fall, was given the endorsement of district poultrymen, fanciers and businessmen who attended a meeting Wednesday night at the Memorial building.

A committee was named to fix the date, select the place for the poultry show and proceed with a program.

This committee is headed by Charles Moser, manager of the Northeast Ohio Poultry association with headquarters at Columbiana. Others appointed to the committee are Carl Willman, representing the Salem Business Bureau; Jerome Hull of Canfield, representing the Turkey Breeders' association; P. R. Corey of Columbiana, a fancier and member of the Ohio Valley Poultry association, and Henry C. Hurlbut, manager of the Arrow Feed Service here and another Business Bureau representative.

To Hurlbut goes the credit for sponsoring a successful poultry show here late last year and fostering plans for a bigger and better poultry exposition this year.

The committee will meet Thursday night, March 7, to map further plans for the forthcoming show and to name sub-committees.

Attending the meeting last night were representatives of the Northeast Ohio Poultry association, hatchermen, breeders, broilermen, turkeymen, members of the Ohio Valley Poultry association and the Business Bureau delegates. C. M. Ferguson, Ohio State university extension agent, was a visitor.

The Bureau, which already has pledged its support to the plans, has urged its members to lend their individual assistance.

An attempt was made at last night's meeting to have the proposed show held in Youngstown. East Liverpool and Columbiana also were reported as wanting the show. No action was taken on the request, the decision being left to the committee.

The show was discussed considerably pro and con, by those present at the meeting. Hurlbut presided.

It had been suggested that the show be given the name of the "National Poultry Festival."

Poultrymen and businessmen fretted for the banquet may be set in favor of a 4-H club health contest in connection with the event rather than the crowning of a poultry queen. The healthiest 4-H club girl and boy member would be chosen.

Glen Campbell of Cleveland, who managed the recent World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland, has offered to help the local men in their program.

Banquet Is Planned By Horse Breeders

The Columbiana - Mahoning County Horse Breeders' association is planning to hold its second annual banquet on Thursday evening, March 14, in the Masonic temple in Salem, beginning at 7 p. m.

A very interesting program is being arranged by the program committee consisting of Wilbur Coy, A. D. Allen and John Strausbaugh. Tickets for the banquet may be secured from Wilbur Coy, Salem; Tom Richards, Salem; A. D. Allen, Salem; Elmer Riehl, Leontia; Glenn Bates, Salem; Harry Pollock, Lisbon; Fred Pieren, Homeworth, Leonard Baird, Salem, R. D. 5; Clarence Lesher, Salem; C. L. Manchester, Canfield; James Anderson, E. Liverpool; Harley Morlan, Lisbon; Wade Wehr, Youngstown, R. D. 2; John Hawkins, New Waterford; Harmon Lesher, Columbiana; D. F. Camp, Lisbon; and the county extension offices, Youngstown and Lisbon.

The program committee has already arranged to have Rev. William Alexander of Pemberville, noted humorist and philosopher, as the main speaker.

Loses Right Eye LISBON, Feb. 29.—George Holcomb of Glenmor is recovering in the Cleveland Clinic hospital from an operation for the removal of his right eye which he underwent Tuesday.

Holcomb, shovel operator for the Central Mining company, was employed on the coal stripping project just east of Elkton Sunday when he was struck in the eye by a flying sliver of steel, presumably from a broken cable. He was taken to the hospital where all efforts to remove the obstacle failed. In an effort to save the left eye, the affected eye was removed.

SWIMMING POOL PLANS

Next Tuesday city council is expected to take the necessary action preparatory to placing a bond issue for a swimming pool before the voters at the May 14 primary election. The amount discussed at the last meeting was $25,000, which would represent the city's share of a grant of $100,000 from the PWA.

That might be the proper amount to cover the construction of a swimming pool, but who knows? There are no plans on which to base an estimate of the cost and, apparently, no plans will be ready when council meets next week. As a matter of fact, council has not authorized anyone to prepare plans. Does that mean that the voters must decide the issue somewhat on the order of buying a pig in the poke? Aren't they entitled to know what they are going to get if they do approve a bond issue and a tax levy for maintenance?

During the last year swimming pool plans were drawn up by an engineer who has built pools in other cities. These plans were prepared for the park commission but they have not been seen nor even recognized by city officials. Some objections have been raised to paying an engineer his commission for drawing plans and supervising construction of the pool when the city has an engineer who is getting $2400 a year to serve the city in an engineering capacity. The sad part of that is that the city engineer would get his commission in addition to his regular salary and no one knows now how expensive a proposal he would submit.

The whole situation boils itself down to one of unpreparedness. If the plans already drawn are not considered the swimming pool proposal will have to be started from scratch, and there isn't much time until the deadline, March 15, when a bond issue must be presented to the elections board if it is to get on the May 14 ballots.

FREE AS THE AIR

Thorough discussion of city bombing during the pre-war years and the war itself up to this time has discounted heavily the claim that it would be a deciding factor. New evidence now appears.

British aviators apparently have been flying over vital German areas as easily as German aviators have been reaching England and Scotland. While the aviation problem of penetrating Germany is more difficult than the problem of penetrating Great Britain, it is important that many British flights have been made to Berlin in north central Germany. It may be assumed that wholesale bombing of London by German airmen would be answered immediately by retaliatory bombing of Berlin. There is no distinct advantage on Germany's side, a vital consideration in aerial war on civilians.

In Finland, on the other hand, Russian bombers have done enormous damage for the simple reason that Finns lack sufficient air strength to retaliate, a lopsided situation that may be brought into balance later, when and if Finland becomes stronger in this type of defense. Leningrad would be as good a target for bombers as Helsinki—if the Finns had bombers.

It is an axiom of war that new weapons develop new defenses. Best defense for city bombing—better than anti-aircraft guns and interceptor planes—is retaliation. The air is free. Unlike land and water it offers no natural barriers giving one side the advantage at the other's expense.

MR. JACKSON'S THE PROSECUTOR

The attorney general of the United States says he cannot advise congress whether it would be unlawful for labor board members to organize opposition to proposed amendments of the labor act. He is responsible for doing something about it, however, if it was done.

Attorney General Jackson, quailing precedent for his refusal to give the house committee investigating the labor board an opinion, won't find any precedent for ignoring a suspicion of irregular practice in government. If he cannot give an opinion to congress because his office is part of the administrative branch and responsible only to that branch, he can act within the administrative branch.

The house committee has heard evidence purporting to show that for several years board officials used public money to organize opposition to proposed amendments to the act they were administering. If so, this would be contrary to a federal law that no part of an appropriation shall be used to influence a member of congress to favor or oppose any legislation or appropriation. The attorney general would be duty bound to take action.

It would be reassuring to hear Attorney General Jackson announce that he is looking into the allegation that labor board funds have been misused and that he will act promptly if he finds they have been misused. His hands are not washed of the labor relations board merely because precedent restrains him from making a report on its policies to congress.

MARGIN OF ONE

The French chamber of deputies voted confidence in the government of Premier Daladier Tuesday by a vote of 450 to one. That lone vote must serve as a meager indication that democracy still is taking nourishment in France.

It's a slim margin—too slim for comfort. Across the border in Germany, or in Russia to the east, a vote of confidence is unanimous. Not even one skeptic dares to let it be known that the head man is mortal and subject to error.

Perhaps the lone dissenter in the chamber of deputies won't be castigated for his vote. In the United States, where a majority of 60 percent is a whooper, it seems as though a legislator with spunk enough to stand up against 450 votes deserves a medal.

Children Today Have Better Diet Than Grandparents Did

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS a truism that the diet of the average child of today is far superior to that of its parents or grandparents at the same period of life. The economic status has little to do with this. Taken group by group, people are better and more scientifically fed than previous generations on the same economic level.

Many factors enter into this. We have a better scientific knowledge of what constitutes a balanced diet, now than ever before. Scientific agriculture has produced more food, better food and greater variety of food. Methods of transportation,

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

preservation and processing of foods have given us a continuous supply of food over the year, with no seasonal periods of lack.

Study Confirms It
It has been assumed for some time that this is true. A recent study gives confirmation. The diet and physical state of 240 young male adults, compared to the diets and stature of their parents at the same age, as made at the Metabolism and Nutrition Clinic of the New York University College of Medicine, furnish the actual facts. Two hundred and sixty parents were studied. Of these 40 percent had come from Russia, 22 percent had come from Austria, Poland, Italy or Roumania, 31 percent were born in the United States. The average height of the male parent was 5 foot 7 inches, and of the female parent 5 foot 3 inches. Their children had an average height of 5 feet 9.7 inches. The average weight was 159 pounds (the average weight of the parents at the same age is not known).

Diet Determined
The diet of the two groups was determined as nearly as possible by questions and observation. The average diet of the parents up to the age of 30 was more deficient in milk, fresh fruit, cheese and meat, as compared to the children's food, than in other articles. The parents received about 100 grams of fresh fruit daily, while their children received 350 grams. The parents got 200 grams of milk a day apiece; the children 450 grams. The parents got more either brown bread or rye, which gave them an adequate intake of vitamin B, but the children's diet provided this vitamin in other forms.

The health of the children's group was rated as follows: 42 per cent were in excellent health; 47 per cent graded good; nine per cent graded fair and only two per cent poor. The health of the parents at the same age could only be roughly estimated, but this estimate indicates that they were definitely under the average of the health of the children's group.

Theater

Typical Mae West-W. C. Fields comedy, hitherto seen in their various pictures and combined on the screen for the first time, make "My Little Chickadee" a picture of distinct comedy value.

Played in the way that the two comedians in their separate fields have made famous, the story of a blonde big city belle and her frontier town lovers is unique in treatment, performance and conclusion.

The treatment gives Miss West not the role she has played in previous films, the soft-hearted, shady-reputationed lady of the dance hall and sa'oon, but the role of a glamorous belle of the 90's who is inexperienced enough to fall for the line of a medicine man and card sharp—almost. Fields is seen as the medicine man and card sharp who is willing, by reason of his great love, to turn over a new card, providing it's the one he needs.

An honest young editor, a pretty little school teacher, a masked bandit and a professional gambler are the other characters in the comedy. The cast includes Dick Foran, Anne Nagel, Joseph Calleia, Donald Meek, Gene Austin, Margaret Hamilton and Ruth Donnelly.

Performance is the real quality of the picture and the conclusion unusual since it lacks the boy-gets-girl touch. Even imagination of a movie producer failed to result in that happy ending. In the comedy Miss West and Fields face reality, they part and she returns to the city from whence she came and he goes back to his medicine show and card sharpening.

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is a Three Mesquiteers western, "Cowboys from Texas", with Robert Livingston, Raymond Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo.

MINOR LEAGUES ADOPT CHANGES

Make Amendment to Rule
Providing for Farm
Systems

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 29.—Paving the way for a return to interlocking farm systems, baseball's minor leagues have adopted a proposed amendment to a major-league rule 11 and forwarded it to the major leagues for their approval.

The unanimous approval of the 40-odd members of the national association (minor leagues) was announced yesterday by President
William G. Bramham.

The measure under consideration is a compromise between the farm operators and Commissioner K. M.
Landis and provides that outright assignment of the contracts of players between clubs linked in the same chains will be considered optional assignments and be subject to the three-year limitation.

It was possible under the present rule to sell a player outright to an affiliated club and thus keep him within the system indefinitely without encountering the restrictions imposed on options.

Landis agreed that if the amendment were accepted he would suspend points three and five in his seven-point pronouncement against farm systems last month, thus permitting working agreements and also the recommendation of players
by one club to another.

Pacific Northwest Hit
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 29.—
Floods and sudden, disastrous winds which swept the Pacific
today and a death toll of at least three.

Two men were killed at the Oregon Lumber company plant in Bates yesterday when a pine tree, uprooted by the wind, toppled onto a truck. Everett Price, 26, Prairie City, was crushed in the truck and James Crockett, Baker, Ore., was struck by a limb of the falling tree.

William Moore, 84-year-old homesteader, vanished into the roaring waters of Deep creek last night when an undermined bank gave way as he stood watching the stream eat at the supports of a

COLUMBIANA ROMPS TO EASY WIN IN TOURNEY

CLIPPERS SLAP CHAMPION FIVE BY 44-9 SCORE

Leetonia and Salineville Lose In Class B Cage Tournament

Two of three Columbiana county teams in the sectional Class B basketball tournament fell by the wayside in first round games at McDonald last night.

The lone county team to survive its first round test in the sectional competition was Coach Al Beach's high-flying Columbiana Clippers, who romped to an easy 44-9 victory over Leetonia and Salineville county.

The inexperienced Leetonia cagers, playing in their first tournament, fell before Lowellville, 35 to 10. Salineville, upset winner over East Fairfield in the county tournament last week, was nosed out by Mesopotamia of Trumbull county, 28 to 26.

No Match For Clippers

A weak Champion team was no match for Columbiana's rangy Clippers, who soared through their regular season winning 18 of 19 games.

The smooth-working Clippers moved out in front by nine points in the first quarter, outscoring Champion 10 points to one. They increased their lead to 13 points in the second period to hold an 18-5 advantage at halftime.

Limiting Champion to one point in the third quarter, Columbiana went up 13 points to lead 34-6 going into the fourth period. Coach Beach sent in the reserves in the last quarter, allowing them to protect Columbiana's big lead.

Scoring honors were well divided with Forwards Burkle and Gieckler, Center Hollinger and Guard Dewalt getting the majority of the points. Hollinger led the scoring with five field goals and one free throw.

Leetonia had little chance against a more experienced Lowellville team which ran up a 20-point lead in the first half. The Lowellville coach used all reserve material available in the second half in an attempt to keep the score down.

Leetonia was held to four points in the first quarter, went scoreless in the second period, counted five points in the third quarter and one in the fourth period.

First Tourney

The sectional tourney is the first Leetonia has participated in since basketball was revived at the school last year. Coach Sid Hale's lineup was made up mostly of underclassmen who will be available for service again next year.

A field goal by Center Dvorak in the last 15 seconds of play gave Mesopotamia its close victory over Salineville. Dvorak also connected for the field goal which enabled Mesopotamia to tie the score at 26-all in the last minute.

Playing the most even game of the night, Salineville and Mesopotamia staged a nip-and-tuck battle right up to the final whistle. The lead changed hands numerous times during the game. Salineville was out in front 7-4 at the end of the first quarter, but Mesopotamia held the lead, 12-11, at halftime.

Salineville led 23-22 at the close of the third quarter and was out in front by two points, 26-24, in the last minute until Dvorak hooped the two field goals which brought Mesopotamia the victory.

The Class B tourney will resume Friday night with Columbiana meeting Mesopotamia in one of three games. A win over Mesopotamia will qualify Columbiana for the district tournament at Kent.

Cunningham Falls in AAU Race

Glenn Cunningham, former king of the milers, battling Chuck Fenske, the new monarch, for the lead in the tenth lap of the National A.A.U. mile run in New York, trips and falls. Gene Venzke and Louis Zamperini almost trip over him as they flash by while Cunningham executes a backward somersault. The Kansan courageously got up and came in fourth behind Fenske, Venzke and Zamperini in that order.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Those pictures from Palatka showing Babe Ruth back in a baseball monkey suit sure look like old times.

Monday night's Toronto fight between Lou Salica and Georgia Pace will be for the bantamweight crown—and with the N. Y. commission's blessing.

There is a clause in Pitcher Hugh Casey's Dodger contract that he can't down a glass of suds until Oct. 1.

Papers at Charlotte (N. C.) where he refereed a wrestling match, summed up Galento thusly: Funny, but sour.

Before beginning training for his comeback, Lou Nova will spend three weeks on the ranch of Bill Lewis, warden of the Nevada State pen.

Hottest in History

The Milwaukee papers have had their research departments busy and have discovered that last Saturday night Chuck Fenske rounded out the hottest stretch of running by any miler in history.

In 21 days Fenske ran three times under 4:9—twice in 4:07.4 and once in 4:08.8.

Variety, the theatrical bible, reports the Arturo Godoy and wife dancing act certainly is not the worst of its kind seen on the coast.

Any Challenges?

West Texas State college is claiming the world's tallest basketball team in the world for the fourth consecutive year.

Tallest guy on the squad is Center Charles Halbert, six foot, ten.

Shortest is Coach Al Baggett, six foot, four.

One of the weeklies is working up a feature on Shoeless Joe Jackson. Every piece of mail coming out of Havana carries this legend right along side of the postmark: "Vea Juglar Al Cincinnati Marzo 22, 23, 24," which is a way of saying the Reds play there on those dates.

JACOBS FACES LOSS OF BOUT

Cancellation of Second Match In Week May Be Necessary

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—For a long time the breaks have been good for Mike Jacobs, the fabulous boxing promoter, but today heavy-weight Lee Savold is in a hospital and Uncle Mike is confronted with the loss of his second big bout in less than a week.

Savold, a rugged Des Moines, Ia., corn belter being groomed for champion Joe Louis, was booked for a 12-round bout with Bob Pastor tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

Yesterday he had a cold and didn't go to the gymnasium to work out. So the boxing commission sent Dr. William Walker around to the fighter's hotel for a look-see and Dr. Walker sent Savold around to a hospital for a rest.

When Savold's temperature reached the 100-degree mark and the medics pronounced his illness influenza, Dr. Walker said that even if Savold improved today he ought not fight.

So the bout seemed off, even though an official announcement awaited the arrival of Jacobs by plane from Florida, where a light heavyweight title scrap between champion Billy Conn and Gus Lesnevich set for last night had just folded up on him.

MIAMI U. WINS SEASON'S FINAL

Defeats Cincinnati To End Season With 12 Wins, 6 Losses

Miami's basketball squad, which early in the season showed promise of being one of the best in the state, tucked away the uniforms today with the final record showing 12 victories and six defeats.

The Redskins wound up their schedule last night by whipping Cincinnati, 42 to 31. The Oxford five coasted after taking a 31 to 16 half-time margin.

John Johnson, of Port Clinton, O., sparked the Miami attack with 16 points, while Ed Jucker had 14 for the Bearcats.

Baldwin-Wallace posted its first Ohio conference triumph of the year by trimming Mount Union, 42 to 32. Jack Oberst, sophomore forward, tossed in 26 points for the Yellow Jackets, with Charles Joachim having 10 for the Mounts.

Center Mogus dropped in eight field goals and three free throws to lead Youngstown to a 48 to 45 victory over Geneva of Pennsylvania. Geneva was on top at the half, 26 to 25 but the Penguins outscored them 8 to 4 in the third period to take the winning margin.

Detroit Tech turned back DePaul, 51 to 36, and Tri-State of Indiana defeated Bluffton, 43 to 35.

Harrison shot a three-under par 68 yesterday, a stroke less than Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., leading money winner of the winter campaign. Sammy Sneed of Shawnee, Pa., the defending champion, trailed with a 70.

CARROLL CLOWNS ELIMINATED IN CLASS B PLAY

6 League Teams Remain In Round Robin Competition

Six teams remained in the round robin tournament of the city's Class B basketball league today after Demings eliminated the Carroll Clowns, 27 to 21, in one of three games at the Memorial building last night.

The Clowns are the fourth team to drop from the round robin event in which three defeats eliminates a team. Others who have been ousted from the tournament are Smith's Creamery, Christians and the "T" Club.

A last quarter spurt brought Demings its victory over the Clowns after the two teams had battled on practically even terms for three periods. The Pumpmeters counted eight points to the Clowns four in the last quarter.

Allen Leads Demings

Gordy Allen was the big gun for Demings, ringing up three field goals and four free throws for 10 points. Joe Sabona paced the Clowns scoring with nine points.

Two independent games were played along with the Class B league contest. In the other games, a Mullins team nosed out the Youngstown Pressed Steel cagers of Warren, 38 to 34, and the Salem Saxons girls lost to a Warren girls team, 21 to 12.

The Mullins passers, paced by Paul Stratton, led all the way in the contest with the Y. P. S. quintet. They were out in front 19 to 13 at halftime and 28 to 21 at the end of the third quarter.

Stratton flipped five field goals and three foul shots through the hoop to lead the scoring with 13 points.

A second-half let down cost the Salem Saxons a possible victory. The Salem girls led by one point at halftime, but fell six points behind in the third quarter and remained on the short end of the score in the fourth period.	G.	F.	T.

VETERAN COACH DEVELOPS REDS

McKechnie Gives Gowdy Credit For Helping To Make Team

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 29.—For more than a decade they've been calling him "Old Sarge" and for almost that long Hank Gowdy, the lean, sandy-haired baseball hero of 1914, has been an actual top sergeant for Manager Bill McKechnie, first at Boston and later at Cincinnati.

The "Old Sarge"—he'll soon be 51—is still at it after 32 years in professional baseball and is a sort of vice president in charge of pitchers in the Cincinnati Reds' camp.

The fans and the press give Deacon Bill credit for doing wonders with pitching material, for curing Johnny Vander Meer's inherent wildness and squeezing out additional victories from the arms of veterans. But McKechnie himself won't accept all the credit.

"We've got the best top sergeant in the business," McKechnie said today. "Hank has forgotten more baseball than most players will ever know, and he's a No. 1 trouble-shooter when it comes to ferreting out the finer points which can improve a pitcher's delivery."

"But," McKechnie added, "try and get him to admit it."

Hank Gowdy wouldn't talk about himself but as to the Reds he declared:

"We got a good ball club. We'll go places this year."

More experience, see? Last year the boys were fighting uphill all the time. This year they'll be different. They'll take a lot of beating before anyone knocks them off the top."

KNOX BELIEVES PASTOR THREAT FOR JOE LOUIS

Ohio Boxer Thinks Former Champ Best among Challengers

CLEVELAND, Feb. 29.—Buddy Knox, the blond bomber of Dayton, thinks Bob Pastor is the best bet among the challengers for Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing crown.

Knox meets Jorge Brescia, South American battler, here tonight in a 10-rounder. It will be Buddy's first important fight in several months and he hopes to snap Brescia's six-bout winning streak and swing into line for some good matches—including one with Pastor.

Buddy expects Louis to retire undefeated in a year and wants to be ready for the scramble that will follow. Just turned 23, the Dayton Irishman has been fighting five years.

He says he has fought 80 bouts and lost six. Red Burman, of New York, knocked him out and he lost to Leroy Haynes, of Philadelphia, on a technical kayo due to an eye injury. Four other foes decided the Ohioan.

Sold on Boxing

"I'm sold on the boxing game," Buddy said. "It has been good to me and I believe I am going places. A year ago I was eighth in the National Boxing association ratings. Then I lost to Nathan Mann. That dropped me out of the first 10, but I'll be back up there."

Knox holds decisions over Bob Olin, former light heavyweight titlist, Dave Clark and Haynes, having beaten the Philadelphian in a return match. He's ticketed to tackle Arny Anderson in St. Paul March 15 and the winner of the Harry Cooper-Gunnar Barlund match on April 3 in New York's Madison

OHIO SWIMMERS ARE LIKELY TO BREAK RECORDS

New Marks Expected In Conference Meet This Week

BOWLING GREEN, Feb. 29.—Six Ohio conference swimming teams will try to wrest the loop crown from Kenyon's Lords here tomorrow and Saturday in a meet apparently destined to produce a flock of new records.

Swim Director M. Budd Cox of Bowling Green State University predicted that every existing conference mark would fall in the new $150,000 Bee Gee natatorium.

Kenyon, holder of every conference record, will stack up against Kent State, Wooster, Oberlin, Wittenberg, Case and Bowling Green—only Ohio conference schools with tank teams.

A definite threat to Kenyon's supremacy is Kent State, boasting a flock of sophomore stars headed by Roman Wojko of Akron, a speedster in free style dashes whose time in 220, 100 and 50-yard events have been better than existing loop marks.

Lead Kenyon Team

Kenyon's title defense will revolve around two veterans and a sophomore, Tom Monaghan, who has surpassed conference records in the 220 and 440. Capt. Bill Griffin and Bob Tanner are expected to keep at the head of the backstroke and breaststroke events, respectively.

Both the medley relay and the 440-yard relay teams from Kenyon have splashed water in the faces of rivals all season. The medley relay team has done the 300 yards in .092 seconds under the record of 3:13.7 but Kent State's outfit has done almost as well, presaging a sensational race. Wooster and Oberlin also possess relay power.

"RED EARTH" by TOM GILL

CHAPTER XXXIII

Fiat against the sky, the mare Douglas lay, grateful for the partial gloom, while his horse was being forced back toward a corner of the wall, where bolted timbers marked the existence of some old worked-out vein that had been blocked off from the mine.

For a moment Douglas thought the raiders had taken refuge here in the mine to rest and to escape the fury of the storm, but almost at once a low rumble from the wall caused him to turn his head. Something was creaking directly ahead of him, and now in amazement he saw that the wooden beams themselves were swinging inward. Heavily, like two huge gates, a portion of the timbered wall opened, revealing a wide passageway, and once more the raiders began driving the horses forward. Caught up in the center of the herd, Douglas was swept through the entrance, then suddenly on either side two floodlights flashed, and in that second Douglas learned the secret of the raiders' hiding-place.

A great amphitheater stretched before him, a wide circular space blasted into the very depths of the hill—a refuge perfectly concealed behind the mine itself, for when those timbered gates were closed, they seemed a very part of the mine wall. Not a sound not even a beam of light could penetrate that oaken barrier. For years, for decades, it had guarded this secret from the outside world.

Slipping from his mare, Douglas darted through the herd to where a double tier of timbers cast black shadows along the wall, and crouched in their concealment.

Across the round room five tunnels supported by heavy oak beams led back into the heart of the hill. Like great black mouths they opened in the darkness—there was something vaguely familiar about them, their size, their relative position, awakened a vague memory.

Then with lightning clarity Douglas remembered the parchment map of this very room and of the tunnels leading from it.

If that map could be trusted, two of those tunnels must lead out to the open—the broad entrance behind him was one, the small shaft to the left should be the other. The raiders then had ways of escape, two ways of escape. But escape was probably far from their minds, for here a hundred men might live in perfect security. Here too was ample room for their horses, and an occasional raid would provide hay and grain enough to last for months. An almost impregnable fortress—small wonder its existence had baffled every rancher in the valley.

Suddenly intent, Douglas leaned forward—against the wall to the left he saw two racks bristling with rifles, and beside them case after case of ammunition piled.

All of a sudden, the sound of nearing voices reached him, and as they drew nearer Douglas recognized Paxton's heavy, grating laugh.

"By tomorrow," Paxton's voice bellowed, "Jack Douglas'll be the joke of the border. Let's take a look at the horses."

"When do we get our pick of 'em?" his companion asked.

"When you're told to. Get that? We're not going to divide 'em up until the Killer's outfit gets back."

Paxton's speech betrayed the unmistakable effects of drink. "How many cayuses are there?"

"Close to ninety—and every one a thoroughbred! The boys can turn loose a lot of their worn-out broomstails now."

Again Paxton's laughter filled the room. "And all with the compliments of our dear Jack Douglas." Still laughing, he moved among the horses. "Arab stock," he gloated. "With a string like this we can run down anything on the border." Then after a moment's silence,

"How many men are here tonight?" "About thirty."

"The Killer must be traveling in force. When does he get back?" "Just about sun-up."

Paxton nodded. "I'll knock off some sleep until he gets here."

Once more Douglas was alone. He knew that at last his one chance to strike a mortal blow against the raiders was at hand. Here, if he played the game with courage, he might hold a winning hand, for this very night was the time of times to strike. The storm outside would blot out all sound of attack, and more than half the raiders were away with the Killer until dawn. A surprise attack might do it. He had five hours!

Thrusting back his revolver, Douglas crept along the wall until he reached the entrance. No one in sight. Turning, he passed through the outer room, ran at top speed down the long tunnel, and in a minute more had gained the outside world. The rain slanting up the canyon, felt cold and fresh on his hot face, and dropping to a fast walk, he descended the trail toward Coble.

Outside the dance hall a dozen horses were tethered to the hitching post. Taking the nearest one Douglas mounted and gave the horse his head.

Mile after mile fell behind him while the cold wind sang past. Soon the rain ceased, and through thinning clouds a few stars glittered coldly over the foothills as Douglas spurred the little pony on, wild with impatience. In less than two hours he had reached the mesa's top.

Without even slackening his pace he burst into the patio, turning his pony up the little hill behind the hacienda, and on the very top he halted. Tender dry beneath his canter, covered, pecked with oiled rags and resinous pine, the flare stood ready for the slightest spark, and not waiting to dismount leaned from his horse, ripped back the canvas, and fired his revolver twice into that inflammable pile.

The blazing flashes shattered to a thousand tiny whirling stars, and two thin tongues of flame licked their way toward the center. Flashed by the night wind, they caught, and the crackle of bonedry twigs was drowned by the hiss of oil-soaked cotton. Instantly a great roaring pillar of flame leaped straight upward, hurling a lurid light against the sky, driving Douglas back before its withering heat. Higher still it rose, swelling, gaining strength, until now it gleamed red and angry against the casement windows, casting into bold relief the long walls of the hacienda.

No need to awaken his vaqueros—the deep summons of that raging flare had brought each of them to his feet. The bunkhouse was filled with men pulling on their boots, fastening their spurs, wildly exultant that the long-awaited moment had come.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pedro was already saddling Coronado when Douglas reached the stalls. Here too was frenzied confusion. Men cursing in frantic haste pulled tight the cinches of prancing horses, forcing bridge-bits between reluctant teeth, but now as Juan's tall figure appeared in the stable door the vaqueros crowded about him, and Russell called, "Where are they, Jack? Where did you find them?"

Douglas buckled on his cartridge belt. "In the mine above Coble." Taking down the rifle, he examined the breach. "An old excavation hidden back of the mine itself and blocked off with a false wall. Inside they've blasted a space big enough to house a hundred riders and their horses. There's a small underground stream for a water supply, and enough food to last for months."

"But don't the miners know they're there?"

"Some of the miners probably are in league with them—or what is still more probable, these raiders themselves actually masquerade as miners during the day. That's how they have escaped detection so long. In that hiding-place they could hold out against an army."

Russell's face testified to his perplexity. "Then how—"

"Tonight two-thirds of them are on a raid with the Killer and won't be back until dawn. Others were down at the dance hall and when I left there was no guard at the tunnel entrance. With hard riding we can be there before dawn. Their guns are stacked in the main room. If we can reach those rifles, we'll have them." He faced about, his arm on Coronado's neck, his eyes eager and alert.

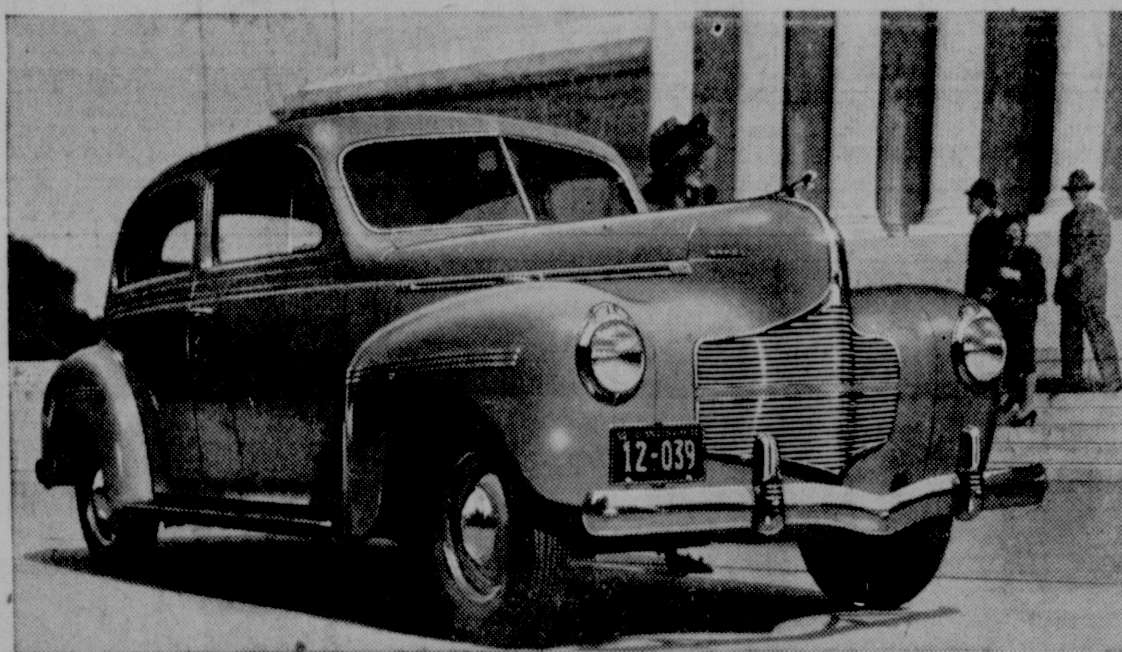

"It's our best chance—maybe our only chance, but even at that it's filled with danger. Are you ready?"

The shout that followed was answered enough, and without another word they mounted. Holding their impatient horses to a canter they streamed past the bunk-house but as they crossed the lawn before the hacienda Douglas held up his hand. There, on the porch, full in the light of the flare stood a spare form enveloped in a cloak black as the night itself, and at sight of Dona Ines the head of every vaquero was bared.

Her face seemed even paler in the glare of that fiery column, and her high-arched nose cast a deep shadow across her cheek. Dismounting, Douglas moved to her side.

She spoke. "It is here—the time to strike?" There was neither tremor nor fear in the steady voice.

"It is here, my aunt. But we must strike quickly. Let me go with your blessing." He knelt, and fleetingly her thin hand rested in benediction

Census Takers Tune Up for the Great Quiz

When Uncle Sam gives the word go, these men and women will go from door to door gathering information on what makes America tick. Their census is expected to give a complete cross section of life in the U. S. and to provide vital statistics which will be invaluable in business. Meanwhile, they are learning their business at a training course in New York City.

on his head, then she raised her arms toward the silent horsemen, black eyes flashing. "Go and conquer," she called aloud.

The fierce yell of the desert vaquero rang back, and how they thundered down the narrow road, but at the gate Douglas turned—there before the hacienda that black-cloaked figure stood, eyes fixed on the dying flare.

Other eyes too were on that flare. High up among the foothills Sam Record from his cabin window saw its light gleaming over the desert like a brighter star, and awakening the five guards who shared his cabin, they hurried down the trail.

Six close-knit figures, trim and military in broad-brimmed stetsons and khaki, they passed quietly through the night, but once Record muttered to the guard riding at his stirrup, "We got no more right to be mixed up in this than we have to rob the U. S. Treasury, only—Jack Douglas' fight is my fight."

The man beside him fingered his revolver lovingly. "Just so there's a fight," he answered, and Record grinned back. "Maybe that's why they call you Red Murphy."

And down on the level floor of the valley, ranchers, herders and vaqueros were answering that flaming summons. From the cow camp, from solitary haciendas, and from many a waterhole they came, leaving their herds, saddling, taking arms and spurring across the starless desert to the rendezvous at Arroyo Grande. Dangerous men—men made more dangerous still by two years of oppression at the hands of the raiders. Men who had looked on death and remained unafraid were girding and hastening to their leader's side.
